Where is our water going?

A look at how a much the shorter showers really matter size of its population, domestic makes up the smallest perchetage of their water uses. Clearly, in order to truly take a step forward in water conservation, it is important to be sure that we look to conserving other uses of water as much, if not more so, than we conserve domestic uses.

Data from US Geological Survey, 2010. Cartographer: Maren Harris USA Contiguous Albers Equal Area Conic USGS Central meridian at -105 W. Parallels at 29.5 N and 45.5 N

1:80.000.000

300 Miles